

Modern Slavery Statement

Alpla UK Ltd

Alpla UK Ltd is a wholly owned subsidiary of Alpla – the world leading plastic container manufacturer/supplier, with over 150 operations in 36 countries.

Alpla UK Ltd hereby sets out the steps the Company has taken to ensure that slavery and human trafficking is not taking place in our supply chains or in within our UK business. This statement applies to all its UK operations and is made pursuant to Section 54, Part 6 of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 (“the Act”).

Modern slavery is a crime and a violation of fundamental human rights. We have a zero-tolerance approach to modern slavery and we are committed to acting ethically and with integrity in all our business dealings and relationships.

We expect the same high standards from all of our contractors, suppliers and other business partners and we expect that our suppliers will hold their own suppliers to the same high standards. Alpla UK Ltd, as part of the Alpla global accreditations, aim to meet or better ETi international standards across SMETA, URSA and SGP etc standards through third party auditors.

Alpla UK Ltd has assessed the risk of human trafficking or slavery in our supply chain and where practicable have undertaken a number of UK labour supply audits to ensure its belief that the risk is very low given the professional nature of the businesses which we having working relations with.

We base our relationship with our suppliers on our Code of Business Ethics which expressly prohibits forced, illegal or inhumane labour practices in the suppliers to any part of our business. Should it be determined that our suppliers are using forced, prison or indentured labour or that their workers were subject to any form of compulsion, coercion or human trafficking we would expect that behaviour to be stopped immediately.

This statement has been approved by Alpla UK Ltd’s board of directors and signed by Alpla Group Chief Executive.
